"The future is certain; only the past is unpredictable": Israel Health Ministry retroactively changes vaccination status of daily confirmed cases

Israeli Public Emergency Council for the Corona Crisis members this week released their "Airport Analysis" that demonstrates that "under relatively equal testing regime, the jabbed and unjabbed are showing similar infection rates," said a Council statement.

"Within 24 hours from the release, the airport positive cases entry history was re-written by the Ministry of Health."

The Council released screenshots of the original data, and the "rectified" data that apparently was intended to preempt the Council’s Airport Analysis.

“Please note that there has been no change in the definitions, only a drastic change in the vaccination status of the daily confirmed cases going backward over a period of months,” a Council researcher said.
